

Celebrity

The Best and Worst Celebrity Breast Augmentations, According to Plastic Surgeons

By NewBeauty Editors | August 07, 2019

Photo Credits: Getty Images

Fashion tape, Photoshop and makeup artists who double as magicians make it hard to tell who in Hollywood has opted for breast augmentation and who hasn't—and, as Pittsburgh plastic surgeon Leo R. McCafferty, MD reminds us, when the procedure is entrusted to a board certified plastic surgeon, it makes it even harder to tell. "The best celebrity breast augmentation and revision is one that's undetectable," he says.

Newport Beach, CA plastic surgeon Tim Sayed, MD agrees, adding, "some of the more aesthetically well-done and balanced breast augmentations are the ones where you ask, 'did she get them done or is it a really good bra?'"

We tapped some of the top plastic surgeons in the country to comment on both rumored and on-the-record breast augmentations and revisions. Below, the cases they believe to be the most well-done—and a few of the worst.

13/13

Kelly Rowland "definitely has implants," says Dr. Stevens. The singer has confirmed her surgery for and reportedly "loves" her new breasts thanks to their natural look.

The best way to get a good result is to find a surgeon who is well trained in breast surgery. Finding a board-certified plastic surgeon who has extensive experience with augmentation will most often give the best opportunity to get a great result," says La Jolla, CA plastic surgeon John D. Smoot, MD.

Photo Credits: Chris Hyde / Stringer/ Getty Images | Image Used for Illustrative Purposes Only

NEWBEAUTY[®]

as featured on newbeauty.com